Morgan Drexen Support Services Use iCloud Technology

Morgan Drexen Integrated systems (MDIS) are ahead of the game in cloud computing platforms as the newly launched ABM Software assists attorneys nationwide.

Costa Mesa, CA- Morgan Drexen Integrated systems (MDIS) are ahead of the game in cloud computing platforms.

Morgan Drexen provides integrated software platforms to attorneys across the nation. "It is interesting to see companies nation-wide launch and market the new iCloud technology. For many software based companies across the United States including California-based Morgan Drexen, cloud computing is old technology by a new name," admits Avi Gupta Chief Technical Officer at Morgan Drexen.

Cloud computing is the delivery of computing as a service allowing shared resources, software and information across a network that is typically the Internet.

Morgan Drexen provides virtually a paper free environment for attorneys throughout North America. Established in 2007, the cloud computing technologies implemented by Morgan Drexen that consist of MDIS, MDCS and MDPS in addition to the newly launched Automated Bankruptcy Module (ABM) delivers to the company's clients who are attorneys a platform for IT services using Internet protocols. This takes the form of web-based tools and ease of access to remote computing sites.

MDIS and the additional technologies provides a platform that delivers services to attorneys that enables them to access complex data more efficiently without the need to manage the underlying hardware and software layers.

Cloud computing allows for increased productivity and many of the systems within MDIS are autonomic computers, which means the systems are capable of managing themselves," says Manny Enriquez IT Director at Morgan Drexen.

"I have practiced law for more than 30 year and in the past I was spoiled with excellent teams of paralegals and they took care of all my filing and paperwork. Now I am a solo attorney with more than 500 clients throughout Illinois and Missouri and I finally get to practice law while someone else does the paperwork through this sophisticated automation. Since starting my solo practice my friends have commented on how I should get a secretary to help me get my paperwork in order. Now with Morgan Drexen I get to do what I do best, which is not paperwork. I just want to practice law," says Nancy Quakenbush an attorney who uses the support services of Morgan Drexen.

Morgan Drexen supported attorneys have the ability to work directly with thousands of clients through a specially designed portal. The Internet-based software allows attorneys to access all the information pertaining to any client. In addition they have access to a network of attorneys through the Morgan Drexen software that allows attorneys to converse on similar cases throughout the nation.

"Morgan Drexen professionalizes my law office and operate at a very high standard. They have all the resources imaginable to do all the intake of data and process that data to produce schedules that are accurate. This reduces the time that an attorney needs to spend on sorting through paperwork. It is a wonderful organization the service that Morgan Drexen provides can't be replicated internally," says Richard Labarth an attorney licensed in Oklahoma.

Morgan Drexen, Inc provides integrated legal services and administrative support to attorneys throughout the nation; who represent consumers facing the scar of bankruptcy.
